WHY NOT MAKING MISTAKES IS THE BIGGEST MISTAKE

“Anyone who has never made a mistake has never tried anything new.” — Albert Einstein
The FEAR of being nothing, achieving nothing and becoming nothing should be way bigger than the fear of making mistakes.

1. Mistakes help you discover who you truly are.

With every mistake that we make we discover more and more about ourselves, about who we are, about our limits, about our capabilities, about what we can and cannot do. They help us be more compassionate and more tolerant with ourselves and others.

2. Mistakes teach you valuable life lessons.

By making mistakes you will, in fact, learn valuable life lessons and you will become a happy learner. There is so much we can all learn from our mistakes, and the moment we see them as lessons rather than mistakes, we will no longer have this crazy fear of encountering them along the journey. “Mistakes are a part of being human. Appreciate your mistakes for what they are: precious life lessons that can only be learned the hard way. Unless it’s a fatal mistake, which, at least, others can learn from.” ~ Al Franken

3. Mistakes teach you how to forgive.

One of the greatest lessons you will learn from making mistakes is forgiveness. With every mistake that you’ll make, you will learn how important it is to forgive yourself and many of the people around you. You will understand that you are not perfect and that perfection doesn’t really exist, only our intentions of doing our best. And who wants to be perfect anyway? Perfection leaves no room for improvement. “The truth is unless you let go, unless you forgive yourself unless you forgive the situation, unless you realize that that situation is over, you cannot move forward.” ~ Steve Maraboli.

4. Mistakes help you let go of fear.

NOT MAKING MISTAKES – isn’t that actually the biggest mistake you could ever make? Life isn’t about avoiding mistakes but rather embracing the idea that mistakes will come your way and being willing to learn from these mistakes. Let go of your fears and allow yourself to really experience life.

5. Mistakes teach you how to live a life without regrets.

Believe it or not, if you play it safe you will have more and more regrets about the things you did not do rather than the things you did do, you will regret not making more mistakes. Personally, whenever I hesitate to do something because of the fear of making mistakes, I imagine myself on my deathbed (I know, a bit too crazy but it works) looking back at my life on what I achieved. By doing so I realize that if I don’t take action NOW, I will have regrets.

6. Mistakes help you grow and evolve.

If you don’t make mistakes how can you expect to GROW and to EVOLVE as a human being? How many of us get stuck because they allow the fear of making mistakes to paralyze them? How can we expect to learn anything new if we don’t allow ourselves to make mistakes?

7. Mistakes teach you how to be happy.

You gain confidence, courage, and experience every time you make a new mistake in a very narrow field and in time you will get better and better at the things you love to do. Remember Thomas Edison? He failed more than 10,000 times while working on the light bulb and in the end, he succeeded. When you know exactly what you want and when you are able to see this something in your mind’s eye, nothing can stop you from moving forward, nothing can stop you from achieving your dreams and allowing happiness to enter into your life.

CONDOLENCES

We express our deep condolences on the demise of Balamdina Ekka wife of Late Lance Naik Elbert Ekka, Param Vir Chakra, who lived up to the rich traditions of the Army displaying conspicuous gallantry during operations in East Pakistan for the liberation of Bangladesh. Widowed at young age Balamdina Ekka continued to live a simple life in the home of her brave husband encouraging youth to understand their responsibility towards the Nation. Her message has encouraged youth to work for the benefit of society.

GARIMA THAKUR

A Teacher job is not only teaching but also preparing than explaining concepts through large boring lectures in a technical way they make their class exciting and fun.

So this month, we are felicitating Garima Thakur as a teacher of the month. She is laborious, ready to accept all challenges to make the class more interesting so that the students learn easily and understand. Hope under guidance students would become super achievers.
